PREFACE.

THE preparation of this Catalogue was commenced in the year 1853, but its progreſs was at firſt unavoidably interrupted by various cauſes, and at the beginning of 1871 only the firſt and a portion of the ſecond volume was in type. In 1872 it was reſolved to recommence the printing on the footing of including in the Catalogue all works acquired by the Library down to the end of 1871. This has now been carried out, and the Catalogue is therefore a complete Catalogue of the Printed Books in the Library brought down to the end of 1871, with the exception of thoſe publiſhed between 1860 and 1871 which fall within the alphabetical limits "A" to "Catalogue." To make the work complete, a Supplement containing thoſe omitted entries is in preparation, and will, it is expected, be publiſhed in July next.

The work now finiſhed was commenced by the late Mr. Halkett, who, when he became Keeper, found the Library deſtitute of any alphabetical Catalogue. To ſupply this want a Slip Catalogue was prepared, which formed the baſis of the preſent work. The printing began in 1860, but Mr. Halkett found that the ſlips required ſo much reviſion, compariſon, and correction, in going through the preſs, that at his death in 1871 he had not proceeded farther than the word "Catalogue." In 1872 the reviſion of the ſlips was entruſted to Mr. Jón A. Hjaltalín, under the editorſhip of Mr. Halkett's ſucceſſor, Mr. T. H. Jamieſon. Since the death of the latter, Mr. Hjaltalín has carried on the work as ſole editor, with the advice and guidance of the preſent Keeper, Mr. J. T. Clark. While thus recording the names of thoſe by whom the work has been actually performed, mention muſt be made of the late Dean of Faculty, Mr. Robert Horn, to whoſe zeal and energy its completion is largely due.

During the progreſs of the Catalogue ſome ſlight change has been made in its plan. The Biographical Notices introduced by Mr. Halkett in the portion of the work edited by him added much to its value and intereſt; but upon his death it was reluctantly reſolved by the Faculty that ſuch notices ſhould be diſcontinued for the future, owing mainly to the delay involved in their preparation.

Bangs & Co.

The titles were alſo given by Mr. Halkett in full, but the increaſe of bulk thereby cauſed was found likely to delay the completion of the work, and the entries were therefore printed in a more abbreviated form, except in the caſe of works of rarity or of peculiar intereſt. For the ſame reaſon it was found neceſſary to carry the abbreviations ſtill further in the two concluding volumes.

The titles of the books are entered under the names of their authors, arranged alphabetically; the works of noblemen under the family name, with a croſs-reference from their title; foreign, according to the well-known rule, that names preceded by a prepoſition are to be ſought for under the letter immediately following; but when preceded by an article, or a prepoſition and an article, then under the initial of the article.

In the arrangement of an author's work, his collected works are placed firſt, and his ſeparate works follow in chronological order. Initials and pſeudonyms are treated as real names, but when the real names are known, the pſeudonyms are only uſed as croſs-references.

Anonymous works are entered alphabetically among the names of authors, according to their titles, principal words, or ſubject-matter. In ſome caſes certain claſſes of anonymous books have been grouped together under ſingle headings, ſuch as Almanacs, Directories, Encyclopedias, and Newſpapers. Again, Journals, Magazines, and Reviews have been grouped together alphabetically under theſe headings, when the words Journal, Magazine, or Review, form a part of the title; if not, they will be found under their own names.

Engliſh tranſlations of ſome anonymous works have been entered under the names of the tranſlators, when the book is commonly known by the tranſlator's name.

Criminal trials are entered under the name of the accuſed, and civil actions under that of the purſuer, with croſs-references under the name of the defender.

Any information not contained in the title-page, which it has been thought neceſſary to ſupply, is given in italics, within brackets. The mark ... indicates omiſſion of certain words in the title. The aſteriſk * is uſed to diſtinguiſh works placed under an author's name, though not written by him, ſuch as memoirs of his life. Croſs-references throughout the Catalogue are marked by ſmall capitals, as follows: Scott (Sir Walter). * Memoirs ... by John Gibſon LOCKHART. 1837–38.

A Scottiſh phyſician who lived in the latter half of the 17th and beginning of the 18th century; but regarding whoſe hiſtory the accounts we have are meagre and contradictory.

The advantages of the Act of Security, compar'd with theſe of the intended union: founded on the revolution-principles publiſh'd by Mr. Daniel De Foe; or, the preſent happy condition of Scotland, with reſpect to the certainty of its future honourable and advantageous eſtabliſhment, demonſtrated. Wherein is ſhew'd, that both the projected union, and a nomination of a ſucceſſor to the crown, tho' with limitations, cannot fail to compleat the miſeries of this kingdom; but that the Act of Security alone, if adher'd to, will infallibly retrive our loſt happineſs, and make us a rich and glorious people.
